Campaign Knowledge Graph

My Character Lore creation app allows you to generate backstories for characters in a RP campaign and generates graphical character connection graphs for the characters and places within the campaign.

The app features a UI for adding session notes for your campaign which can be written with the app or imported from txt or markdown files.

Features

- Use a local language model to clean up character summaries and backstories.
- Import session notes from external data sources extracting heading and date information.
- Generate a knowledge graph from multiple data import sources and display information to users in clean readable format.

What It Does	Highlights
• Create and edit character sheets with stats, backstory, summary, details, and character connections. • Extracts session notes with date and session title info from either Markdown or raw text files. • Build per-character knowledge graphs from character sheets. • Use graph data to explicitly populate summaries or rewrite backstories when desired.	• Import session notes from raw text or markdown file. • Extract the knowledge graph from the character backstory. • Suggest graph-backed wording updates for character summary and backstory to improve writing legibility. • All your data is stored locally on your machine. • Graph-backed rewrite helpers never overwrite human edits to your character files.

Campaign Knowledge Graph

Build a role-playing character sheet tracker which will pull in information from multiple data sources and display semantic connections between characters. The tool should include the use of local language models to clean up summaries and backstories before importing external session notes into knowledge graphs. Knowledge graph views are available for viewing character, place, and session notes.

Campaign Character Rewrite:

Uses internal knowledge graph to suggest updates to character backstories based on information from multiple data sources.

Name Orin Nightbloom
First Name Orin		Family Name Nightbloom
Level 1	Race Half-Orc	Class Bard	Pronouns he/him
Backstory (Auto Generated) The loss of Orin_Nightbloom's Mother left more than grief behind; it gave Orin a reason to understand the curse shadowing his family and to stop it from claiming anyone else. Now Orin carries his music forward as a form of defiance, trying to stop a younger relative from repeating their worst choice while turning inherited sorrow into something brave enough to protect the living.		Original Backstory against the encroaching darkness. He carries with him the weight of his mother's fading notes, the echo of her pain, the notes of his own, fueled by a promise to break the cycle, to save his young cousin, to silence the chorus of the cursed. He carries the weight of the Sunstone mage college, a living monument to the pain their whispers could not heal, and a beacon for the path that could. Most of all, he carries the sorrow of his loss, the ache of a mother's legacy left untarnished, and a burden that could, with his intervention, finally be lifted.
Summary (Auto Generated) Orin is a Half-Orc Bard tied to Sunstone Mage College, School and connected to Orin_Nightbloom's Mother, Nightbloom.		Original Summary Orin is a male character from a coastal mage college.
